It's an internet version of talk radio, with added benefits such as the ability to listen to your own time frame rather than being forced to tune in at a certain day and time. Podcasts are different from what you usually hear on the radio, just as YouTube videos are different from what you watch on TV. The term podcast comes from a combination of iPod and broadcast. The iPod's ability to store music files (and thus any audio file) led to its use as an audio broadcast (podcast) player in the early days of the podcast. A podcast is defined by the ability to subscribe to audio files, not by a specific platform. A podcast is a series of episodes that are stored in the same type files we use to store music on our laptop or smartphone. Similar Similar Tv or talk radio show, podcast is generally centered around a topic such as politics, sports, entertainment, horror, gaming, etc. Each 'episode' usually revolves around an object within this topic. You can listen to individual episodes or subscribe to a podcast that is usually free. For example, Under Saves America is a news podcast with a progressive take on political news. It is hosted by four people and the show often includes professional guests who offer their opinions. Episodes tend to focus on something political, like health care or tax reform. At a completely different end of the spectrum is Critical Role, a podcast hosted by Geek and Sundry that features voice actors going through the Dungeons and Dragons campaign. Each episode is an adventure within this campaign, with longer adventures divided into several episodes. The number of podcast episodes will vary depending on who is producing the show. The obvious difference between a podcast talk radio series is the on-demand availability of podcasts. However, many popular talk radio shows are releasing a podcast version of the show to reach listeners that lack regular performances. Pod Save America is one of the most popular podcasts online. Wikimedia Commons / Rhododendries So how else is the podcast different? Well, there is only so much bandwidth available for radio broadcasting, so talk shows need to appeal to a wide audience to capture the audience in a certain amount of time. The same restriction doesn't apply to a podcast distributed over the Internet, so you'll see subjects with more limited appeal and podcasts that don't have the same type of budget. This is one of the biggest benefits of podcasts. If you have interests, even if those interests are very niche, there's probably a podcast covering it. And better, you can listen at home, in the car or on the go, because podcasts can travel with you on your smartphone. Now that we know what a podcast is, how do we find it? There are thousands of free podcasts available online through various hosting services. These services allow you to subscribe to a specific podcast and download it as soon as each new episode is available, and even notify you if you have an app on your phone. If you own an iPhone or iPad, you already have an app dedicated to podcasts on your device. The Podcasts app, which is easy to find with Spotlight search, lets you search for different podcasts, stream specific episodes, and subscribe to a podcast. There are also a number of great Podcast apps available for iPhone and iPad. There are many free podcast apps for Android. Anyone can help you make a fine first dive into the podcast pond. One thing we can't tell you is which podcast is perfect for you. There are thousands of free podcast downloads for almost any interest. Here's a look at the best podcasts everyone is listening to right now. Thank you for tell us! Tell us why! Why!
